If you simply add the clarifying condition " _____ " to any questionable moral behavior, you'll discover yet another transcendent, objective moral principle. (Page 162)

If humans are simply the product of blind physical and chemical laws, there is no reason to believe we are anything more than the _____ consequence of an evolutionary process. If this is the case, there's nothing _____ about us when compared to other species or forms of life in our environment. (Page 170)

Transcendent moral laws require a transcendent moral law _____, and an all-powerful, non-material, non-spatial, a-temporal, purposeful, personal Creator would certainly qualify. If such a Being exists, moral truths would not simply be His creation or opinion; they would instead be a _____ as an all-powerful, perfect Being. (Page 172)

From this section, list five naturalistic explanations given for moral truths.

1. _____
2. _____
3. _____
4. _____
5. _____

Case Making Course Session 07 (Investigating God) -
Evidence for God from Objective Morality

You only have moral obligations to _____.
_____. It's not just that there are objective moral truths; it's that the obligations we hold are only to other _____.

Since all moral claims are between persons, wouldn't it be fair to ask _____ _____ to whom we are feeling obligated?

Where do objective moral truths come from?

Individuals

But this equalizes every action and claim as _____
