Forensic Faith: A Homicide Detective Makes the Case for a More Reasonable, Evidential Christian Faith (Pages 59-65)

If we hope to prepare the next _____ of Christians for the upcoming challenge, we need to pass on the values and responsibilities we've learned from those who came before us. We must show our children what Christian case making looks like. We need to embrace and model a _____. (Page 59)

The adjective forensic comes from the Latin word forensis, which means _____. The term usually refers to the process detectives and prosecutors use to investigate and establish evidence in a public trial or debate. (Page 59)

We hold a forensic belief when we believe something because it is _____, even though we may still have some unanswered questions. (Page 60)

Although some Christians may believe Christianity is true without any evidence, Jesus never required this. Instead, Jesus asked His followers to believe because of _____; as Christians, we ought to have a forensic faith. (Page 62)
